

QUESTION OF EXEMPTIONS NEXT PROBLEM IN REGISTRATION WAKE

The whole process probably can be carried through in less than 30 days. No Class Exemptions

The exemption regulations, as issued, add little to the terms of the draft law, the question of whether a man between the ages of 21 and 31 is entitled to exemption because of dependents, the nature of his occupation, or physical unfitness being for the boards to decide after proper investigation. It is made very clear, however, that there are to be no class exemptions, and that each individual case must be decided on its merits.

According to the general rules issued, the local boards—one for each county of less than 45,000 population or city of 30,000, with additional boards where necessary for each additional 30,000 population—will pass upon claims for exemption except those based upon industrial or agricultural occupation, subject to appeal to the district boards.

All cases involving agricultural or industrial exemptions will be passed upon by the district boards—one for each federal judicial district—which also will decide appeals from decisions of the local boards.

Upon organizing the local boards will take over from the registration boards all registration cards, which they will number serially and list for posting to public view. Then, after having been advised of the method by which the order of liability for service shall be determined and of the quota to be drawn from its territory (minus credits for enlistments in the national guard or regular army), each board will prepare a list of persons designated for service in the order of their liability, post the list, give it to the press, and within three days send notice to each designated person by mail.

As the men so notified appear, the boards first will make a physical examination in accordance with special regulations to be provided, bearing in mind that all persons accepted by them will be re-examined by army surgeons. If the physical examination is passed successfully, then comes the question of exemption.

Those Who Are Exempt

Persons who must be exempted or discharged by the local board include:

Officers of the United States, of the states, territories, and the District of Columbia; ministers of religion, students of divinity, persons in the military or naval service of the United States, subjects of Germany, all other aliens who have not taken out first papers, county or municipal officers, custom house clerks, workmen in federal armories, arsenals and navy yards, persons in the federal service designated by the president for exemption, pilots, merchant marine sailors, those with a status with respect to dependents which renders their exclusion desirable (a married man with dependent, aged or infirm parent, or brother or dependent orphan child less than 18 years old), those found morally deficient, and any member of any well recognized religious sect existing May 19, 1917, whose creed forbids participation in war and whose religious convictions accord with the creed.

Who May Make Claim

Claims for exemption because of dependents may be made by the man himself, his wife, or other dependent, or by a third party, who has personally investigated the case. A claim made by the husband must be accompanied by supporting affidavits signed by the wife and by the head of a family living in the same territory. A claim by the wife or a third party must be accompanied by two supporting affidavits signed by the heads of families.

Similar rules govern claims on the grounds of other parties being dependent on the claimant with supporting affidavits. In each case the board must be satisfied before it grants exemption or discharge that the dependent or dependents actually are supported mainly by the fruits of the man's mental or physical labor.

The text of the regulations regarding an exemption claim by a married man with dependent wife or child illustrates the method prescribed for similar cases, as follows:

"(1) Those in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge desirable.

"(2) Any married man whose wife or child is dependent upon his labor for support, upon presentation to such local board, at any time within ten days after the filing of a claim for his discharge by such married man, of an affidavit signed by him giving the name, age and place of residence of his wife or child (if any); and stating that he is a married man, the husband of said wife, the father of his child or children; that such wife, child, or children (are) dependent upon his labor for support as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that his income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

Affidavit by a Wife

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by such wife giving her husband's name, age, and place of residence; the name (s), age (s), and residence of their child or children (if any); and stating that she is the wife of such person, the mother of such child or children, and that he is the father of her child or children; the approximate amount of her separate income and the independent income of such child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her or her child or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, her, the child, or children (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; and that her husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

"And upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board of a supporting affidavit signed by a head of a family existing within the area in which such local board has jurisdiction, giving the name, age, and place of residence of the husband whose discharge is sought; the name (s) and place of residence of his wife, child or children (if any); and the age (s) of such child or children; that such person, his wife, his child or children are personally well known to affiant, and stating upon information and belief that such person is the husband of said wife, and the father of her child or children, the approximate amount of the separate or independent income of such wife, child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from the husband, exclusive of any gifts to her, the child, or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, her, the child, or children (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; that the husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor; and stating on oath the sources of affiant's information and grounds for belief concerning the income and dependency of the wife, child, or children.

"If the wife does not live within the area of such local board the affidavit of the head of a family may be made by such a person residing outside the area of such local board.

"If the claim for discharge is filed in respect of the husband by his wife, then upon presentation, within the time aforesaid, to such local board, of an affidavit signed by such wife giving her husband's name, age, and place of residence of her own, and place of residence of their child or children, (if any); and stating that she is the wife of such person, the mother of such child or children, and that he is the father of her child or children; the approximate amount of her separate income and independent income of such child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her, the child, or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, her, the child, or children (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; and that her husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.

"If the wife does not live within the jurisdiction of the local board the affidavits required by heads of families may be made by such persons residing outside the area of such local board.

"If a claim for discharge is not filed by the husband or his wife, but by another person in respect of such wife, child, or children.

"If the wife does not live within the local board, at any time within the time aforesaid, to such local board, of an affidavit signed by such person who has filed the claim, giving the name, age, and place of residence of such person; the name, age, and place of residence of the husband whose discharge is sought; the name (s), age (s), and place of residence of his wife, child, or children (if any); and stating that such husband, wife, child, or children (are) personally well known to him; and stating upon information and belief that the person to be discharged is the husband of such wife and the father of such child or children; the approximate amount of the separate or independent income of such wife, child or children during the last preceding year, exclusive of any sums received from her husband, and exclusive of any gifts to her, the child, or children, the same being merely the income derived from the separate or independent property of, or property held in trust for, her, the child, or children (are) dependent upon her husband's labor for support, as the term 'labor' is used in these rules and regulations; and that the husband's income was mainly the fruit of his mental or physical labor, and was not income mainly derived from property or other sources, independent of his mental or physical labor.
